

CITYSPRING INFRASTRUCTURE TRUST

(Business Trust Registration No. 2007001)

Distribution for the Quarter ended 31 December 2009 to Unitholders of CitySpring Infrastructure Trust

In accordance with the Business Trusts Act, we set out below our distribution policy and the measures and assumptions for deriving the amount available for distribution for the quarter ended 31 December 2009 (“Distribution”).

Distribution Policy

Our distribution policy is to make distributions to you, our unitholders (“Unitholders”), out of our residual cash flows. Our residual cash flows consist of:

- (1) principally distributions we received from City Gas Trust (“City Gas”), SingSpring Trust (“SingSpring”) and CityLink Investments Pte Ltd (“CityLink”), the entity through which we hold Basslink, together with principal and interest payments on the Notes referred to below; and
- (2) after paying our operating expenses (including the Trustee-Manager’s fees) and repaying principal amounts, interest and other financing expense under our debt or financing arrangement.

In considering the amount of any distributions to be made from our residual cash flows, the Trustee-Manager may reduce such distributions so as to provide for our cash flow needs or to ensure that we have sufficient funds and/or financing resources to meet our liquidity needs.

Qualifying Project Debt Securities

In connection with our initial public offering (“IPO”), City Gas and SingSpring had issued notes (“Notes”) to CitySpring Infrastructure Trust. The Notes qualify as qualifying project debt securities (“QPDS”) and enjoy certain tax incentives. One of the tax incentives is that the interest income from the Notes will be tax exempt if it is onward-declared for distribution to you within six months from the end of the financial year in which we actually receive the interest income from City Gas and SingSpring. As such, we plan to distribute to you substantially all of the interest income on the Notes we receive from City Gas and SingSpring.

In making distributions and principal and interest payments pursuant to the Notes to us, City Gas and SingSpring may take into consideration their earnings, financial position and results of operations, as well as contractual restrictions, provisions of applicable law and other factors.

Restrictions on Payments on QPDS

City Gas and SingSpring have in place a S$128.0 million five-year term loan (“City Gas Loan”) and a S$155.5 million 18-year term loan (“SingSpring Loan”), respectively, from certain lenders and these loans impose certain covenants on City Gas and SingSpring, respectively.

City Gas must have sufficient funds to pay under the City Gas Loan all scheduled interest due in respect of the City Gas Loan for the next three months, and sufficient funds or credit facilities to fund capital expenditure requirements for the next six months, before it may pay interest on the City Gas Notes. No principal payments under the City Gas Notes are permitted while the City Gas Loan is outstanding.

Under the SingSpring Loan, SingSpring must have sufficient funds to pay the principal and interest on the SingSpring Loan for the next three months before it may pay interest and/or principal on the SingSpring Notes.

These covenants may have the effect of restricting the distributions that City Gas and SingSpring may make to us, which will in turn restrict the amount of distributions that we can make to you.

Solvency Statement

Attached hereto is a copy of the Solvency Statement of the Directors of the Trustee-Manager in respect of the Distribution to Unitholders for the quarter ended 31 December 2009.
